

Contents

List of photographs . . . . .	8
List of figures . . . . .	9
Notes on contributors and editors . . . . .	10
Acknowledgements . . . . .	15
Introduction: multiple disciplinarity, human experience and the cultural Other . . . . .	18
Anu Kannike, Ergo-Hart Västrik
I. Field
Experiencing and interpreting truth . . . . .	32
Essay by Aet Annist
Mimetic knowledge in the ethnographic field . . . . .	35
Art Leete
“If you’re really interested in scientific research, you should study the Bible!” Ethnographical fieldwork among evangelical Christians . . . . .	53
Piret Koosa
II. Body
Bodily experiences and biopolitics . . . . .	74
Essay by Katrin Alekand
Owning the body: patents and transformations of the body in Cambodia . . . . .	77
Darcie DeAngelo

The biopolitical turn in post-ideological times: a trajectory of Russia's transformation . . . . .	99
Andrey Makarychev, Alexandra Yatsyk

III. Public-private

Dynamics between public and private . . . . .	118
Essay by Halliki Harro-Loit

Changing media and privacy conventions . . . . .	121
Halliki Harro-Loit

The construction of the 'other' through private stories: Japan in the travelogues of Estonian seamen, as published in Estonian newspapers during the second half of the 19th century . . . . .	145
Anu Masso, Ene Selart

Small stories, trivial events – and strong emotions. Local event narratives in hand-written newspapers as negotiation of individual and collective experiences . . . . .	163
Kirsti Salmi-Niklander

Meaning-making and ethnicity in different contexts: Russians in Estonia, Russia and Kazakhstan . . . . .	179
Triin Vihalemm, Cynthia S. Kaplan

IV. Space

Setting up space . . . . .	214
Essay by Franz Krause

Creating spaces of food experience: pop-up restaurants in Estonia . . . . .	217
Ester Bardone, Anu Kannike

Shoshone as a text: a structural-semiotic analysis of reading the river as a whitewater raft guide . . . . .	245
Jamie Kruis

V. Death

Death as the transformation of personhood . . . . . 268
    Essay by Kristiina Johanson & Pikne Kama

Individual and collective burial places:
an analysis of the Viimsi tarand graves of northern Estonia . . . . . 271
    Maarja Olli, Anu Kivirüüt

Tricking Death? The Role of the awareness of death in self-transformation of personhood according to Georges Bataille . . . . . 293
    Normunds Titans

Interviews

Autoethnography and applied cultural analysis . . . . . 314
    Interview with Billy Ehn

Bodylore and embodied knowledge . . . . . 324
    Interview with Katharine Young

Embodied seeing-with-the-world . . . . . 328
    Interview with John Wylie

Personhood in archaeology . . . . . 332
    Interview with Chris Fowler

Index of names . . . . . 337